It is a well-known fact, admitted by the EGYPTIAN CIGARETTE MANU-FACTURERS themselves, that Cigarettes imported from Egypt are made from TURKISH TOBACCO, (which is subject to a heavy Import Duty in Egypt. Hongkong being a Free Port tobacco can be imported free of duty.

Two Good Reasons why it is advantageous to Smoke my Cigarettes.

1.—Cheapness of my Cigarettes compared to imported cigarettes, owing to tobacco being admitted duty-free into Hongkong, and that you are buying direct from the Manufacturer, doing away with middlemen's profits.

2.—Freshness of my Cigarettes, as they are made daily for each day's consumption, which makes it impossible to have an old stock of Cigarettes, so is very likely with imported Cigarettes.

The following is a list of my Cigarettes made from the Best Turkish Tobacco at from 40% to 50% cheaper than imported cigarettes of equal quality.

NAME	SIZE	AMOUNT OF TOBACCO	PRICE PER 100

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1906.

THE MENACE OF ANARCHY.

SENTIMENTS of abhorrence will be engendered in all parts of the world by the fortunately unsuccessful attempt to assassinate the King of Spain and his young Consort. A crime such as this concentrates attention once again upon the menace that Anarchists constitute to the whole world. These men are guided by no fixed principle except detestation of all that prevents free let to unbridled passion. As, in a sense, the Kings or Presidents of various countries symbolise in their person the laws which prevent anarchy from reigning, these misguided persons apparently argue themselves into the belief that, if they remove the rulers, their principles will have a better prospect of adoption. The fatuous futurity of such a belief is so self-evident that it is not worth while traversing.
But the Anarchists are a stern fact and they should be dealt with as such by international arrangement. Like the plague or any other of the ills which afflict mankind they call for concerted action to stamp them out. If every nation agreed to do its duty in apprehending all the advocates of the abolition of law, an arrangement might easily be made for the establishment of an international gao on some remote island where these maniacs could be detained for life.
Regicide, when committed in the stress of some great political convulsion is inexcusable enough but understandable.
Experience has shown, however, that the Anarchists are not animated by the passion that is brought into being by political excitement but that, on the other hand, their crimes are as often not committed in the coldness of cold blood. The assassination of the late Empress of Austria and of President McKinley are cases in point.
That the men who commit, or attempt to commit these crimes, are mad is of course beyond doubt. But while they are mad in one particular direction they are sane enough in others, as is shown by the remarkable manner in which they circumvent the secret police.
There was at one time, and may be to-day, a sort of understanding among the police of various countries to assist each other in defeating the ends of the Anarchists, but what is wanted is a definite scheme by which they could be either blotted out of existence or segregated so that they should be harmless. It is to be hoped that the tragic event at Madrid will hasten the adoption of some means by which these wild beasts may be hunted down and either exterminated or caged.The collapse of three buildings in the Western portion of the city reported in the China Mail last night once again attracts attention to the fact that, notwithstanding the efforts of the Public Works Department, there are in existence and use buildings which are a menace to the lives of the occupants to any nothing of those who use the thoroughfares upon which they abut.
A crusade against the use of bad mortar has been carried on for several months past with a large degree of success and it may be anticipated that the new buildings which have sprung up during the past two years will be of quite a different description to those which occasion such deplorable accidents as that which occurred yesterday.
But unhappily there are a great number of other structures scattered about the city about which grave doubt is entertained. When they were built the system of inspection was not so thorough as it is to-day and consequently contractors sought to increase their profits by running up jerry buildings.
Steps should be taken without delay to have a careful and exhaustive inspection made of all the buildings in the Colony about which there can be any doubt and if any are found to be in a condition approximating to that of those three houses which collapsed yesterday they should be unhesitatingly condemned.
It would be of interest at the same time if a report were prepared to show how the stability of buildings has been affected by the requirements of the sanitary authorities. Admittedly it is an excellent thing to endeavour to render the conditions of living as healthful as possible but this object would be achieved at too great a cost if, by altering buildings, so as to admit the maximum of light and air, their stability is affected and the lives of the occupants threatened by a swifter danger. Yesterday's unfortunate occurrence will be not entirely devoid of a redeeming feature if it spurs the authorities on to endeavour to make the inadequate housing we have in Hongkong at least safe from sudden and unheralded collapse.The entente cordiale has naturally revived the Channel Tunnel scheme, and Mr. Paul Cambon, the French Ambassador in London, gave it a semi-official blessing at a banquet recently. Fifteen years ago a commission pronounced decidedly against it. Britain would cease to be an island. The machinery for flooding the tube might be thrown out of order, and we should have to fortify the road from Dover to London, with a complete change of our military and naval policies, all to save weak stomachs and an hour's discomfort on the Channel trip. Really the opponents of the scheme, like the player Queen in Hamlet protest too much.
The French can scarcely crawl through a gas pipe to invade England, and the advantages of direct railway communication between London and the continent do not stop at the alleviation of the pains of sea-sick tourists. Every such international scheme makes for peace, and it is to be hoped that more success will meet the project than in the antediluvian days before the present century.Reference was made not long ago to some interesting contributions on the enthralling subject "Man" which a "Spinster" was making to M. A. P.
She certainly presents many curious views in her articles which have appeared in the last issues of the paper which have come to hand. One of these is that man when he is in love is as much intoxicated as when he is "in liquor." The theory is not exactly new, as the expression "intoxicated by love" is familiar enough. But a "Spinster" holds that the intoxication is an actual thing, that the man who has the misfortune to be in love is as much "under the influence" as he would be if he had won the sweep on the Derby and had been celebrating the event at the club with more completeness than wisdom.
As an inebriated man cannot be held responsible for anything, he says while his intellect is clouded by the fumes of liquor, so she holds the nonsense that a man is supposed to talk when he is the host of the microbe of love must not betreasured against him. She goes on:
"We do not expect the drunkard to keep the promises he makes when intoxicated; why, then, should we expect the intoxicated lover to mean anything he says? We cannot doubt that certain women have about their personality some weird intoxicating atmosphere that flies to his head, and the old legends of Circe and the Sirens have foundation in fact. But when a man knows himself to have been intoxicated by strong drink, he has usually the grace to feel ashamed of himself afterwards, and not to boast of his overhauling. When he has lost his senses over a woman, the first thing he does, on recovery, is either to pretend he never did anything of the kind, or else just to get up on a house-top and crow!"In one of the accounts given by a witness of the scenes which occurred during the earthquake at San Francisco it was stated that in more than one instance men who were pinned beneath burning timbers and had no hope of escape were mercifully put out of their misery by those who were unable to rescue them. Perhaps no more awful position can be conceived than that of the man who hears the appeal of a fellow creature to relieve him from intolerable agony by summarily putting him out of existence. Few people will argue that the men who shot their fellow creatures who were hopelessly pinned under immovable timbers upon which the flames were just beginning to feed were not justified in saving them from the awful fate of death by fire. Those who have seen something of war and who know the almost inconceivable character of some of the wounds inflicted by shells are of course aware that euthanasia is not uncommonly practised by the field surgeons. The whole problem is a very difficult and painful one. In the hospitals to-day are scores of people who have no human possibility of recovery. Life has nothing left to offer them and in many cases they have no wish to live. Would there be justification for painlessly ending their torture? A bill to legalise the ending of human life in certain circumstances has been introduced to the Iowa Legislature by Dr. Gregory, one of the representatives. This measure proposes, under stringent safeguards, to make it incumbent upon physicians to "end human life in cases where there is great suffering and death is certain to result, and likewise to destroy hopelessly idiotic and deformed infants." At least three physicians and the district coroner must agree to the act and the consent of the sufferer or the nearest relatives is essential. As might have been anticipated the introduction of the measure has caused a tremendous outcry in America. Most indignation was caused by the allegation by Dr. Gregory that the practice he seeks to legalise is followed "without system and due authorisation almost daily in the great hospitals of Chicago, New York and other cities." This has drawn denials from the governing bodies of the hospitals, and Dr. Gregory has been severely censured in the press for bringing his profession into disrepute and justifying the dread which so many people of the lower class feel in regard to hospitals.
There seems little likelihood of the bill becoming law, and perhaps in view of the admittedly imperfect condition of existing knowledge of such matters it is well that it should be so.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea

SHANGHAI, June 1.

The Kwong Shui Club has received a telegram from Canton asking that the $800,000 collected from the Shanghai shareholders be remitted to Canton.

As certain merchants, alleged to be Shanghai shareholders, have wired to Chinese abroad not to remit any money the Railway Company has requested the Shanghai Club to despatch contraband.

A meeting of the Kwong Shui Club has been held at which it was decided to obtain the opinion of Shanghai shareholders by inserting an advertisement in the local papers. Shareholders who do not wish their money remitted to Canton may receive it back, but whatever remains will be forwarded to Canton.

THE COLLAPSED HOUSES.

A gang of about sixty coolies, under Building Inspector T. Edwards, was still at work this morning clearing the debris out of the three houses that collapsed in Queen's Road yesterday. So far no bodies have been found in the ruins and it appears fairly certain that the four people who were rescued yesterday were the only ones who did not escape before the collapse. The rubbish in house No. 256 has been completely moved but there still remains a great deal to be done in houses Nos. 253 and 254. The outside walls have been propped up, and when this work is completed inside there should be no danger of a further collapse. The damaged houses are Nos. 256, 253 and 254 Queen's Road West, being some distance past the Government Civil Hospital.

SPORTING.

Lawn Tennis.

Yesterday afternoon three important matches in the Tennis Tournaments were played at the Cricket Ground. The one which attracted the most attention was the final of the A Class Singles between T. B. Norris (own 30/2) and R. Macpherson (own 15/4). The handicap was in favour of Macpherson, Norris owing 15 in each alternate game. Though Macpherson had the opening service Norris won the game, and continued by winning the succeeding two, though the third game brought out some good play, Macpherson getting in some remarkably good shots. The set was won by Norris, without his opponent scoring a game.

In the second set Norris won the first three games by his steady, cool play, and again Macpherson made an effort, this time with more success, winning three games to succession and making the score three a 1. The next two games went to Norris; Macpherson won the next, and Norris ran out, the score standing at 6 games to 4.

The third set went much the same way as the second, Norris winning by 6 to 4. Though several times Macpherson gave promise of an extended effort he failed to show to advantage against his keen opponent. Norris was always in a winning position, and his play was extremely good, though not as good as he has shown in other matches this season. Had he been pressed more closely there is no doubt that his play would have been better.

The semi-final in the Doubles between Henderson and Pearce, and Phillips and Zehrmann ended in victory for the latter couple. Henderson and Pearce lost the first set after a keen struggle. The game score was called four all, five all, six all and seven all. Phillips had the service then and though using 30, he and his partner won the game without their opponents scoring a point. With the score at 7/8 against them Henderson had the service. He won the first point, but lost the second, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh, and thus lost game and set.

The second set was not so prolonged and Phillips and Zehrmann won by six games to four.

There was a fair amount of good play shown by all four men, though Zehrmann played the best game. Henderson opened weakly, but later on he improved and settled down to steady play. Pearce played well, but want of combination prevented Pearce and his partner from appropriating more games. As often as not Pearce was in Henderson's way, or Henderson in Pearce's; this was generally remarked. On the other hand Phillips and Zehrmann played well together, seldom blocking each other. Pearce played close up to the net and although he scored many points by judicious smashing his scope was limited by Phillips and Zehrmann placing the ball over his head to Henderson; in consequence the latter had a good deal to do.

The third match was the final in the B Class, in which C. C. Rutledge (own 3/8) met J. L. McPherson (own 3/8). The players met on even terms and good tennis was the result. The couple played their match free from spectators and umpire, and to the casual visitor the game appeared more like a practice match than anything else. Rutledge won the first set 7/5, the second 5/1, and third 5/6.

The remaining finale in the Champion-ship and Doubles will be played this afternoon, and next Saturday the annual match between the Hongkong Club and the Ladies Recreation Club will take place. The Club will probably be represented by Messrs H. and R. Hancock, T. E. Pearce, R. B. Beattie, R. Macpherson and Captain Carpenter; while the following will do battle for the L. R. C.—Messrs T. B. Norris, R. F. O. Master, F. C. Zehrmann, H. Pinnock, Lieut. Whyte and H. W. Woodward.

At the conclusion of the match the prizes won in the Tennis Tournaments will be presented to the successful competitors.

THE MARATHON RACE.

Details of the Marathon race at Athens, which was run on May 1, are as follows:

The start took place at Marathon, at three o'clock to the sound, in splendid weather, the thermometer standing at 80.60 in the shade. The runners set off in three lines, a metre's length apart, a mounted officer with a chronometer riding in front as time-keeper.

The first five kilometres were covered in 20 minutes. At the 10th kilometre, Frank (America) was leading, followed by the Bohemian, Bechensky, with Daly (Ireland) running strongly. This order was maintained until the 15th kilometre, when Frank was still leading, followed by Daly, who now was second, and Blake (Australia) creeping up. This point was passed at 3.55.

At the 20th kilometre, which was reached at 4.10, Blake was leading, running in grand style. It was altogether a magnificent race. Frank was second at this point, and Herring (Canada—the ultimate winner) third. The latter was now slowly gaining on his opponents. From the 25th kilometre it was uphill work for 10 kilometres. Then there was a level stretch as the plateau opened. Frank was still leading, but was obviously distressed. Close at his heels came Herring, who had now assumed the second place, with Blake third. It was now 4.40. At this point the road slopes downwards, and Herring, who had refreshed himself with an orange, was running in great style. Daly sat down to rest. Herring dropped out. At this point Herring dropped his cyclist peer, and was picked up by the Greek athlete, Sandia. The Swede, Swenberg, was now second, with Frank third. The star made several sprints, but could not alter his position.

An Englishman ran up with water and alcohol, and bathed Herring's face. The Canadian seemed much refreshed, and going that he was well ahead, dropped into a walk, husbanding his strength for a final effort. He continually looked back towards his opponents, and as soon as he saw them drawing up, broke into a run again. By these tactics Herring turned out all his competitors, the only runner still following being Swenberg and Frank, who were always some distance behind the leader.

The 30th metres walking race was won by Stantios (Hungary), in 10 min. 18.3-sec. Müller (Germany), was second, and Sandikis (Greece) was third. Wilson (England) was disqualified for running.

The Olympic Games have now concluded. The American team, says a Home Journal, is perhaps one of the best ever put into the field. Their organisation, management, and loyalty all reached a high pitch of excellence. The British team, though comprised of men of the highest calibre, followed being Swenberg and Frank, who were always some distance behind the leader.

A NEW LAW.

At the annual meeting of the M.C.C., recently, a proposal to alter Law 54, with a view to decreasing the number of drawn games, was agreed to as follows:—"That in a two days' match, the captain of the batting side has power to declare his innings at a close at any time, but such declaration may not be made on the first day later than six hours and forty minutes before the hour agreed on for drawing stumps."

CANTON NOTES.

CANTON, June 1.

It is reported that the Hongkong, Canton and Shao Steamship Company has purchased a house in Ki Chung Street, which is objected to by the Chinese authorities as a branch of the Treaty, and in consequence the British Consul and Viceroy are considering the question.

The two robbers who were recently extradited from Hongkong are to be tried within a week. The British Consul has been invited to be present at the trial.

The salt traffic. Considerable discussion has been occasioned by the capture of certain junks, owned by Chinese naturalised Portuguese subjects, which were carrying salt. The Portuguese Minister objected to the seizure of the salt, which the Chinese authorities claimed was smuggled. It was contended that the salt had been purchased in Hongkong for transshipment to Macao and that though the junks had to pass through Chinese waters to reach Macao, they did not touch at Chinese ports. The Waiwupu has commenced negotiations with the Portuguese Minister and it is hoped to arrive at a thorough understanding.

ANNOY NEWS.

Annoy, May 28.

The weather recently has much unsettled the minds and tempers of the people here. The rain and storms in the Formosa Channel just outside the limits of the city have done more to annoy the people than any other cause. One of these was more severe than any we have had for several years. Happily there has been very little damage to property and no loss of life so far as I can discover. The results have been more serious in the interior, for the heavy rains produced such high floods that the lower lands have all been inundated, and the volumes of water sent down to the sea has for miles been tinged with the colour of the lands through which they passed.

Plague is very prevalent just now in Annoy and the surrounding districts, and common report says that as many as thirty deaths occur daily, though there are no means of verifying these popular statements. The Chinese are greatly given to exaggeration, and if we were to take one tenth of the above number we should probably be nearer the truth. There is one gratifying thing about the plague this year and that is that it has assumed a milder form than in former years. This may mean that the epidemic is dying out.

The "Hona Wan" has just sailed with 900 emigrants for the Straits. It is remarkable what a steady human flow leaves our shores for Singapore, Penang, etc., that there has been going on for years and what with that and the enormous losses through death by plague the country is being considerably depleted of its population. The result is that everything has risen in price, even labour, which at the present moment is highly paid in a almost ever department.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr R. F. Bryn has been appointed Assistant Auditor to the Government.

Mr. E. A. Howatt, has been appointed an unofficial member of the Executive Council, vice Mr. C. H. Dickson, resigned.

Duke Tsai Tsé and the other members of the Special Chinese Commission, who will return to London from France next week in order to pay their respects to King Edward, will, upon a subsequent date, be the guests of Mr. Joseph Walton, M.P., to meet a number of members of the House of Commons at dinner.—Overland Mail.

Mrs. Kasberg, a very old Scotch lady resident of Hongkong passed through the Colony on the English mail to-day. She was formerly Mrs. MacFarlane and from 1861 to 1869 resided at East Point, her husband being employed by "Jok Lamont," who had a small slipway and shipwright's business, and who during those years built the Aberdeen Dock. With her husband Mrs. MacFarlane was long a resident of Shanghai and being left a widow she was again married to Mr. Kasberg. Her second husband predeceased her and for some years past Mrs. Kasberg has acted as housekeeper to Sir Ernest Satow, British Minister at Peking. She is still in his service and expects to remain in the position at home.

Mr. Nicholas Post, Consul for Austria, Hungary, who has been appointed to the Consularship at Rio de Janeiro, leaves, with Mrs. Post, for South America on Tuesday. Mr. Post has been in the East for almost ten years, making his first appearance at Shanghai as Commercial Attaché in 1886. Two years later he was appointed Vice Consul. He was then transferred to Hongkong as acting Consul in 1900, being appointed Consul early this year. Mr. Post is very popular among the members of the Consular service and, indeed, with those of the Public who have had occasion to meet him, either in a business or social capacity. His departure will be regretted. Mr. Post goes via the States, and proceeds to his home before proceeding to Brazil.

M. Albert Visetti, the well-known professor of singing at the Royal College of Music, sometimes tells the story of an extraordinary dream he once had when he was a lad of ten, living on his father's estates in Dalmatia. One night he dreamt that no less a personage than the devil himself came and sat by his bedside and talked to him. In his dream the boy was not at all frightened. Lucifer proved himself to be a very good man of the world not to be able to adjust his conversation to his company, and they had a very interesting conversation on subjects ranging from brigands to white mice. At last the Prince of Darkness arose and politely expressed his regret that he must go. "But," he added, "so that you shall know that I really have been here I will leave a sign behind me," and with that he stooped down and pressed his hand upon the counterpane. And when the boy awoke in the morning, there on the counterpane, was the mark of a small, well-formed hand, whose owner would take 7/6 in gentleman's gloves. Soap, chemicals, everything was tried to obliterate the impression, but nothing could alter it, and to this day, out from the counterpane, the square of linen bearing this ghostly imprint is carefully preserved in M. Visetti's family. When asked if he can offer any explanation of this occurrence, M. Visetti replies: "No, I cannot. I simply state it as a fact."

Inspector John Gauld, one of the best known and generally popular inspectors of the local police force, left the Colony to-day by the P. and O. mail steamer "Oceana." After seventeen and a half years service in the Colony Inspector Gauld has recently suffered from poor health as a result of which he has been compelled to resign the force, and he returns to Scotland (on pension) in the hope that his native climate will quickly restore him to health and strength, a wish which is expressed by every member of the police and detective force, and his large circle of civilian friends. Prior to his departure from the Central Police Station this morning a very pleasant and interesting ceremony took place. This was a send off by the Chinese detective staff. The men assembled in the detective office and Chief Detective Hanson, expressing their feelings, said that the Chinese were one and all very sorry to see Inspector Gauld leaving the Colony. He was a man, with whom they had always been glad to work, and for whom they had the greatest admiration. Inspector Gauld had, always been spoken of amongst the Chinese detectives as a man "quiet in his manner but strong in his works." It was with genuine feelings of sorrow that they saw him leave the police force and the Colony. Inspector Gauld in acknowledging the compliment said that he was very pleased indeed to see that the Chinese had appreciated anything that he had been able to do. During the last year or so his health had perhaps prevented him from taking the interest in the work that he had formerly done but he had always found it a pleasure to work with the members of the Chinese detective force. The departing Inspector left Blake Pier for the steamer at about 11 o'clock and was accompanied a very hearty send off by a large number of the police inspectors, amongst whom were Chief Detective Hanson and Chief Police Inspector Baket.

THE QUESTION OF LAO-TSE.

As the CHINA MAIL has been good enough to publish a belated paper of mine (see Overland China Mail, March 10, 1906) upon the above contested subject, I take the liberty of adding a few remarks in reply to an article by Professor H. A. Giles, who takes a very different view of the genuineness of Taoist history. The article is apparently to appear in a publication called Adversaria Sinica, which I see from the North China Herald—has already reached its second number, and which, I presume, is a Cambridge publication managed by the learned gentleman in question. All I know is that a "rough copy" has been sent to me anonymously (April 20) and it is evidently intended that I should reply to Mr. Giles.

He very properly translates the whole of the chapter on Lao-tse published in B.C. 90 by the historian Sz-ma Ts'ien, who first of all gives a sober account of Lao-tse himself, and then goes on to describe honestly the various "yarns" abroad at the time about Lao-tse and two other worthies, popularly but erroneously confused with him. Mr. Giles always translates as well the commentator's remarks when it suits him: why then does he not translate this? "It appears that the Han Emperor Wu Ti (B.C. 141-87) was the dupe of genii and quacks whilst at the same time he had a religious veneration for Lao-tse; hence Sz-ma Ts'ien wrote the chapter on Lao-tse, recording his birthplace, and finding out all he could about his descendants, in order to show that Lao-tse was but a man like anyone else."

In 1893 Mr. Giles said that Sz-ma Ts'ien could not have seen Lao-tse's book and that had it been in existence he would have made an effort to see it: and now "what I have said I have said." He adheres to his views of 1893 and proceeds to tell us that "such is the famous authority to which alone we can look, say many Chinese critics [not named] for any details about Lao-tse. There is indeed one other passage in the biography of Confucius [by the same Sz-ma Ts'ien], etc., etc."

But how about the following passage in Sz-ma Ts'ien's 120th chapter? "The Dowager Empress (B.C. 139) was fond of Lao-tse's book. She sent for X and enquired about Lao-tse's book. X replied that it was mere retainers' talk." The commentator (about A.D. 100-200) explains: "Lao-tse's Tao-t'eh Pien, though obscure and difficult to understand, still, when viewed close at hand, simply treats of the governance of the state and of one's self: hence the expression 'retainers' talk.' Thus we see that Sz-ma Ts'ien did know of a book, and that the commentator even explains how the words 'book' and 'talk' are the same in effect. Moreover a page earlier in the same chapter, apropos of two hostile Confucian scholars, Sz-ma Ts'ien says: 'The Dowager Empress was fond of Lao-tse's talk and did not care for Confucian principles.' Again at the end of his chapter on Lao-tse, Sz-ma Ts'ien adds on his own account: 'The Tao valued by Lao-tse was based on inconspicuous humility and quietism.' Hence he composed a book, the language of which is considered obscure and difficult to understand." Then he discusses the Taoist philosophers, Chang-tse, Shên Puh-hui and Han Fei-tse and concludes: "but Lao-tse was deepest and most far-reaching."

In the paper upon Faust Teaching published in the Overland China Mail on March 10, 1906, I have given many other instances from Sz-ma Ts'ien's history, proving, I think, incontrovertibly, that Lao-tse and his book and writings generally had been studied without a break ever since his death. Moreover, Mr. Giles cannot be ignorant of this important evidence, for Dr. Chalmers brought most of it specially to his notice (China Review, Vol. XIV, pp. 324, and onwards). To ignore it now is not a very handsome proceeding for a man in Mr. Giles' honourable position.

In my paper of March 10, above cited, I also give a large amount of evidence from the Han history, covering the same period as Sz-ma Ts'ien's history, but carrying literary history nearly a century later, down to B.C. 9, at least. Much of this was also brought to Mr. Giles' notice by Dr. Chalmers, and it seems to indicate a regrettable want of frankness on his part to ignore it simply because it goes directly in the face of the case he has now presented to European readers; especially as therein several freshly recovered copies of Lao-tse are mentioned as having been written in ancient character; and moreover the story of the Empress Dowager of B.C. 139 is several times confirmed.

As to the opinions of Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Legge upon Mr. Giles and his Lao-tse paper of 1893, the only opinions it is possible to consider are those which they have left on record, which are utterly and unreservedly condemnatory of Mr. Giles. The moribund confessions and reticences which Mr. Giles in Adversaria Sinica now hints were made to him verbally by those loyal and truthful men are at best ex parte hearsay; from a judicial point of view totally irrelevant to the issue, and utterly inadmissible as evidence. If either Dr. Chalmers or Dr. Legge felt that any injustice whatever had been done by them to Mr. Giles, the fact would have instantly been recorded. But in view of the treatment now accorded by Mr. Giles to the unmistakable written evidence above cited, it is impossible without qualification to take these statements from Mr. Giles even as ex parte hearsay. If Mr. Giles "heard the following words read from a private letter"—"The Tao-t'eh King must be given up," as we are entitled to know, full particulars as to who received, who read, and who now possesses that letter, so that we may judge for ourselves by the context what sense was most probably intended.

On the face of the alleged words they seem to mean that Dr. Chalmers felt himself too old to go on with the study of Lao-tsean obscurities. Nothing more. When Mrs. Clappins was asked by Justice Stareleigh "What she was doing in the back room," she began by saying, "My lord and jury, I will not deceive you," and then entered into subsidiary details about kidney potatoes "which was three pounds for two-pence halfpenny," finally breaking out into a laudatory dissertation upon her expected ninth baby. Mr. Giles' intimate conversations with the two doctors are on precisely the same footing as regards judicial relevancy to the plain question of the authenticity of Lao-tse.

In 1888 Mr. Giles wrote touching the Burning of the Books:—"My personal conviction is that this catastrophe has been much exaggerated," and he now censures what he calls my audacity for saying that the Book of Changes was spared. But the 30th Chapter of the Han history says most distinctly in treating of this specific question, "And when the T'ien dynasty burnt the books, the Book of Changes, in consideration of its treating of divination, had no break in its transmission." It might be argued that this language was not plain enough but a final note adds, with reference to incomplete parts of another philosopher's book, "as to this book, after generations have failed to transmit it." But the chief point is that in his eagerness to prove my supposed audacity, it suits Mr. Giles now to make a volte face. He says: "Dr. Legge, indeed, thought that the extent to which the destruction of literature was carried by the Burning of the Books had been rather exaggerated. The following hitherto unnoticed quotation, however, will show that in the 8th century A.D., the loss was considered to be a very real one." He was always considered to be a very real one, and there are at least a dozen statements to that effect in much earlier centuries: no point can be made here.

A little further down we find Dr. Legge accused of "special pleading" because he tried to show that the words "Lao-tse" were equivalent to "it is said in the Tao-t'eh King." But in 1888 Mr. Giles himself informed the world that the book in question was originally known as "Lao-tse," and so, in fact, the Chinese commentators on Sz-ma Ts'ien tell us; just as we say "Shakespeare," and just as we say "Wen-tse, Kwan-tse, Ming-tse, Shên-tse, or any other philosopher, or philosopher's book. And, by the way, Kwan-tse, whose name is written with the wrong character lived two centuries before the absurd date named by Mr. Giles, who seems to have copied, in pure ignorance, a slip of the pen from some careless person as the Yong Shi specified by the learned Wylie. Nor was there ever such a person as the Yong Shi specified by the learned Wylie. The mysterious philosopher Lo Shên also looks like a misprint; but possibly the resources of Chinese characters properly so called "extraordinary circumstances" are hereby granted for there is no feeling of bias against him. He would make a commendable search for evidence on both sides and if, having fully considered all the evidence available, he really and in good faith tried to make out an honest case, and thoroughly believed in it, all that it with pure regard to the subject beyond where my evidence takes me and I have produced most of my evidence in the paper of March 10, in my articles published by the Public Review and in my book China and Religion. I am now collecting fresh evidence or trying to do so.

Strikes in Italy. A telegram from London, dated May 11, states:—Collisions between the troops and strikers have taken place at Bologna and Rome. The strike is ending at Milan, but spreading to Genoa and Naples. Baron Tomm'io, in the Italian Chamber, said the Government would vigorously repress the strike disorders, which were provoked by the conduct of the troops. A Socialist motion declaring that legislation was urgent to prevent a massacre of the proletariat was rejected by 189 against 28. The Socialist Deputies have resigned in a body, owing to the refusal of the Chamber and the Government to discontinue the employment of troops.

PERILS OF MINING IN MEXICO.

LOS ANGELES, April 10. For the second time in four months the Giroux Consolidated Mining Company, with headquarters in the Braly building, this city, has suffered the loss of lives of its employees through a Yagui Indian ambush near the corporation's mine in Sonora, Mex. According to telegrams received here Samuel Williams, an assayer employed by the company, was killed, and two other members of the party were wounded in the latest attack. Five others, who accompanied the expedition are unaccounted for.

The party started from the mine on Saturday morning to go to the railroad shipping point. About ten miles out the Indians, attacked them; Williams' body was found in the afternoon, while the two wounded men were picked up by a squad of soldiers who happened along the trail. General Torres, military Governor of Sonora, has a company of soldiers out searching for the Yaguis and the missing members of the party.

Williams was a young man, and, so far as known, had no family. The Giroux company lost a mining engineer named Sayles last January, through an attack of Indians, and officials of the corporation state that they are determined to make a thorough investigation. The company will soon have an armoured automobile on the ground to secure the safety of its officers and men who are forced to travel from the mines to the Carbo station.

STEAMERS TO SAIL 1906.</

BY WHARF AND WAVE.

The Mission to Seamen have commemorated their jubilee by the issue of a dainty little volume entitled "Fifty Years with Our Sailors," which gives an excellent idea of the high aims and notable success that have attended their efforts on behalf of the seafaring. That the mission has prospered during its 50 years of labour is evidenced by the fact that there are now 66 chaplains and 64 lay-readers at work in 96 ports at home and abroad, as compared with two chaplains who were appointed when the society was formed. There are now 118 seamen churches and institutes in connection with the Mission.

Japanese Shipping Trust.

Further particulars (see Fairplay) are to hand respecting the proposed formation, by means of the Japanese Shipowners' Union, of a new Steam Navigation Company. It appears that by far the greater majority of the small owners have joined this combination. The steamers of over 1,000 tons owned by them number 132, with a total carrying capacity of 233,747 register tons, and the aggregate capital amounts to close on twenty million yen. It is estimated that these 132 steamers will consume about 750,000 tons of coal per annum, and that the formation of this Trust will result in a considerable saving in the purchase of fuel and other necessities, to say nothing of the decreased cost of management. It is presumed that out of these 132 steamers there will probably be a dozen always lying idle on account of repairs or for other reasons, but that the remaining 120 will be constantly on active service, and that 90 of them will find employment in regular lines, and the remaining 30 as outsiders. The plans for the different lines are already drawn up. They are (1) Kobe, Osaka, Sagami, 14 steamers; (2) Yokohama, Moji, 19; (3) Yokohama, Muroran, Kure, 3; (4) Osaka, Korea, 4; (5) Kobe, North China, 10; (6) Yokohama, North China, 6; (7) Kobe, Vladivostok, 3; (8) Kobe, Taiwan, 4; (9) Kobe, Formosa, 6; (10) Kobe, Shanghai, 4; (11) Shanghai, North China, 4; (12) Shanghai, South China, 4; (13) Chiofo, Vladivostok, 8; (14) Yokohama, Philippines, 8; (15) Japan, China, India, 8. In the Yokohama-Philippines line it is intended to put boats of about 3,500 tons with a speed of not less than 19 knots; in the Japan-China-India line (in which Japanese boats are already running), vessels of from 3,500 to 5,000 tons will be placed, with a speed of over 11 knots. The hope is entertained that the Government will grant a subsidy for the two last-mentioned lines.
